The A.H. Beard Difference

We're a proud family-owned Australian company with over 120 years of helping people get a better night's sleep. Five generations of the Beard family have been committed to providing superior quality, comfort, innovation and service, to ensure we remain leaders in our field.

All A.H. Beard mattresses are made in our seven factories across Australia and New Zealand by a team of over 400 dedicated and highly skilled people. As a valued A.H. Beard Commercial customer, you will receive guaranteed before and after-sales support from a specialist team, wherever you are located.

Support recommended by the experts

King Koil Commercial by A.H. Beard mattress feature our innovative Reflex support technology. Reflex responds to each sleeper's unique size and shape to deliver the level of support their body needs. Primary coils provide all over support and pressure relief, while additional Active coils respond to provide extra support where it is needed most.

Each spring is encased within its own fabric pocket so that it responds independently to body movements and minimises motion transfer. That means each sleeper is far less likely to be woken up by a restless partner and can enjoy a deeper, more restful sleep.

King Koil mattresses featuring Reflex technology are the only ones recommended by the experts at the International Chiropractors Association.

A healthier choice

A healthy sleep environment is crucial for a restful sleep. A.H. Beard mattresses are the only ones approved by the National Asthma Council of Australia and Respiratory Foundation of New Zealand to carry the Sensitive Choice blue butterfly symbol. That's because they provide long-term protection against dust mites and their allergens, mould and bacteria, so your guests can breathe and rest easy.

Better for the Environment

Environmentally friendly EvoFoam

A.H. Beard chooses to use EvoFoam in our mattresses, which provides greater levels of comfort and consistency, while being kind to the environment.

EvoFoam is made using the world's most advanced foam-making process, Variable Pressure Foaming (VPF) Technology. Unlike traditional foam manufacturing, VPF technology does not use potentially harmful chemical additives as blowing agents to create the foam's open cell structure. EvoFoam is made in a totally enclosed chamber, preventing the escape of emissions into the environment. The result is a healthier foam with virtually zero emissions – no CFCs or CO – that offers superior comfort and resilience to other Australian-made conventional foams.

Mattress Recycling

At A.H. Beard, we are committed to reducing our environmental footprint and safeguarding our planet's future. In Australia, we are a proud founding partner of a national not-for-profit scheme that diverts end-of-life mattresses from landfill and recovers components for recycling. Through the program, steel springs can be recycled into roof sheeting, mattress foam into carpet underlay and fabrics into acoustic panelling and more.

As a not-for-profit social enterprise, the scheme provides employment opportunities for people who have experienced barriers to employment.

Speak to your A.H. Beard representative about mattress recycling services in your area.

OVER 120 YEARS OF Bed Making Experience

As a fifth-generation family-owned business, family has always been at our core.

Since Enoch William Beard began making straw-filled palliasses and tufted horsehair mattresses back in 1899, each generation has embraced the family trade and introduced new techniques and innovations to advance the business. And most importantly, they have passed on their passion for helping people get a better night's sleep to the next generation.

Today, fourth-generation brothers Garry and Allyn lead a dedicated team charged with creating the best sleep experience available. Working alongside them are members of the fifth-generation, who bring enthusiasm, ideas and a commitment to lay the foundations of success for future generations.
